ABOUT MARIBETH

Maribeth is considered an expert in intuitive animal communication, medical intuition, and energy healing.

As an Animal communicator for "Pawsitive" Changes, she offers more than just animal communication. She leads pets - and their people - to a place of emotional, behavioral, and physical healing.

Based on her extensive experience with animal transitions, Maribeth wrote the Amazon bestseller, Peace in Passing: Comfort for Loving Humans During Animal Transitions. Her book provides a roadmap to help guardians navigate this difficult leg of their animal's life.

To date, Maribeth has completed over 1,500 sessions with people and their pets. Her clients have come from Australia, Canada, the Czech Republic, England, the French West Indies, Germany, Scotland, Switzerland and Thailand as well as the U.S.

Maribeth has taught her UConnect animal communication class to scores of students for seven years. She shows them how to use animal communication to deepen the bond with their own animals. This skill allows graduates to communicate with animals outside the family, too.

Maribeth lives with her husband, Charlie, along with their dogs, Newt and Molly (a 16-pound Chihuahua/Boxer mix!), and cats, Bunnie and Shadow, in Alexandria, Virginia.

#1: I Picked You

It was a mutual decision. We're meant to be together. Discover what I bring to the relationship; not just what you do for me - food, safety, shelter, etc. Look beyond my non-humanity. See the love I bring, the non-logical intelligence, even the challenges that offer you a chance to grow.

ACTION TIPS:

- Use your intuition/ gut feeling to decide on a new pet. See if I "shine for you."
  Ask your partner for their gut reaction and make a joint decision.
  If you're meant to take me home, I will connect with you!
- Rethinking your decision about making me part of your life?
  Think back - what originally made you decide to bring me home?
  Start with that good energy and build on it.
- What do you need that I am helping you --- or forcing you --- to focus on?
  What're you helping me with?

#2 I Want To Be Part Of Your Family

I dearly want to be a happy and essential part of your family. I even see myself as your partner in life – on a strictly platonic level, of course.

ACTION TIPS:

- Create a household where I feel like I am a valued member of the family.
  Read books, watch videos or get advice from reputable sources to get some ideas.
- If you use an animal communicator, listen to see life from my viewpoint.
  Honor my requests or needs.
- Tell me (yes, talk to me in the physical world!) about how much you appreciate me.
  It goes a long way.
- Communicate with me confidently with love rather than anger or disgust.
  Don't make it a power struggle.
- Give me a job (heart of the household, nanny, playtime coordinator, protector, companion, greeter). Tell me how important it is; compliment me on how well I'm doing when you see me doing well.

#3 I Understand More Than You Think

Look for my understanding, expect it and you will reap rewards.

ACTION TIPS:

- Set your intention that I understand what you're communicating. That starts to synch up our vibrations.
- Have you noticed that I come to comfort you when you are upset or sad? Acknowledge me, thank me – I'm happy you noticed and I'll be there for you more often.
- Talk to me as if I understand. Start with a few words, a few sentences. Notice when I get it and acknowledge it. I'll get the vibration of your words, thoughts and emotions clearly enough as you practice.
- If you think I just communicated something to you, believe it and tell me you noticed! It encourages me to continue --- and life can get very interesting and fun!

#4 You Impact My Health and Behaviors More Than You Think

Your emotions and thoughts impact me. I can't ignore them. I'm wired to experience them. Heard the expression, "If Mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy?" The animal version could be, "If my person is unhappy/angry/fearful, I am not my best self". Remember, though, that I have my own personality, peculiarities and preferences. How I respond to your emotions might be different than you'd expect.

ACTION TIPS:

- If I exhibit a new, negative behavior, is something different in the family? Did someone leave or someone new start living with us? Is there a new schedule? Is someone sick? Was there a setback at work?
- Don't ignore my physical body. Are you giving me good food, water and treats? Do I get enough exercise and social interactions? That will help me weather your emotions. And don't forget to take care of your physical self, please; you matter to me.
- If I have a chronic physical condition, read up on the emotional causes of disease - Louise Hays' book, Heal Your Body, for instance. Does it resonate with my issue? If so, work on yourself!

#5 I Survive Death

I promise, my personality continues into the afterlife. And I remember and care about you.

ACTION TIPS:

- If you are having a hard time with my passing, remember our bond is eternal. I will definitely see you when you pass – I might even be there to help you cross over when your time comes. Hang in there.
- If you are ready to go deeper, ask me why I left when I did. The answer will make you think.
- If I contact you after I pass, it's not wishful thinking. Good grief, I went through all that effort to contact you. Enjoy it please!
